DAILY GAZETTE.

The Earthquake in England

The shock of an earthquake, more or less severe, was felt in all parts of England at about 22 minutes after three o'clock on the morning of October 6th. At some places the shock is represented as having been quite severe, and accompanied by a loud rumbling report, while at others it was slight and without noise. No damage was sustained anywhere. At Great Malvern the windows of the Imperial Hotel, a very large and massive building at the foot of the Malvern Hills, were violently rattled, and it is said that one of the railway signals was displaced. Servants ran down stairs in affright and general consternation appears to have been felt. In the town of Dudley the shock was severely felt, beds being violently shaken, and in some instances doors burst open, crockery ware broken and clocks stopped. In detached buildings in various parts of the town the effect is described as being most terrifying. The shock was followed by a rumbling sound similar to that experienced by persons sleeping immediately over a tunnel as trains were passing. Many inhabitants left their beds and congregated in the street, discussing the extraordinary phenomenon. The shock appears to have been felt the most in the midland and west midland counties. It extended to Bristol, to Taunton, to Exeter, to Swansea, and to many miles out at sea. In some places a deep rumbling noise was heard. At Nottingham the noise resembled the sound of a heavy carriage approaching. The phenomena at Hereford is minutely described by the clergyman of Strattan. He says the sound at first increased with a gradual crescendo for two or three seconds until the crash was felt which lasted for one second and a half, and consisted of two concussions, and then subsided as gradually for some seconds, until it died away in the distance. It appeared to have been equal to the loudest peal, but it was fuller, and deeper, and greater than thunder. In about three minutes afterwards, a second faint rumble was heard.

Hints to the Friends of Soldiers.

OFFICERS' HOSPITAL, NASHVILLE, October 21, 1863.

Mr. Editor:—As the time is fast approaching when the friends of our brave soldiers will begin to think of sending their Christmas presents, in the form of edibles, I would like to make a few suggestions which can be taken for what they are worth.

It is a fact not generally known, that three-fourths of the articles prepared, boxed up and forwarded to the soldiers, reach their destination in such a condition as renders them entirely worthless. Having witnessed the opening of hundreds of these boxes, I am prepared to speak from a personal knowledge of the facts. The contents usually comprise the following: Preserved and canned fruits, jellies, pies, cakes, confections, nuts, cheese, and dried beef; to which is often added a roasted fowl. The jars of fruits and jellies are generally broken, and the contents spread throughout the box. The pies are mouldy, the cakes stale, and the roast fowls in a state of decomposition. The object of the generosity is defeated, and the soldier disappointed. As I profess to know something of the wants of the soldier, I will simply state what I think would be most acceptable to any or all of Uncle Sam's boys.

Procure a strong box, large enough to contain one gallon of home made pickles—not the small, hard, acid-eaten articles found on sale in the store, but the old-fashioned cucumber pickle, six or eight inches in length, and swimming in pure cider-vinegar—a one-gallon jar of sour krout, one peck of nice onions, one half-pint of condensed milk, two dozen nicely flavored apples, one smoked and dried beef tongue, one can cove oysters, two or three pounds home made sausage—stuffed—one pound good tobacco, and a few fine cigars. To these might be added a good book and a few illustrated newspapers, and my word for it, the articles will not only reach the soldier in good order, but will give him a greater satisfaction than any conglomerated mess of sweet-meats that could be sent to him.

I would like to see the substance of this note published in all the newspapers, as I believe it would be endorsed by nine-tenths of the army. W. T. P.

Paris (Oct. 2) Correspondence Liverpool Journal.

Maximilian's Golden Sceptre.

The golden sceptre to be presented by the Mexican deputation to the Archduke Maximilian was seen by a few of the initiated in Paris during the stay of the notables here.

It is a thick gold stick about the size, in circumference, of a very fat alderman's thumb, and of about eighteen inches in length. The gold is from the mines of Mexico, and the four large emeralds which adorn the handle are likewise of Mexican produce. The ruby fixed at the end, and which is said to send back the seven rays of the star in the sunlight, was taken from the watch chain of Iturbide, where that unfortunate monarch wore it for some time, always with the intention of having it engraved as a signet ring, indicative of the imperial dignity which it was his intention to have borne with so much magnificence. The fleuron into which the head of the sceptre is carved represents something very like a fleur de lis, at which our gazers here were most astonished. But Mexican art has not yet reached a very high standard, and the exact emblem intended for representation is not absolutely evident to the sight. The sceptre is rich enough, and will serve as an imperial policeman's baton, to be used according to the great inspector's orders. It is a pity that the same notables who come provided with the sceptre for governing the people of Mexico do not come with instructions how to use it. The first false moment in the exercise of this new and strange weapon—the first thrust will render the bearer liable to the same fate as that of his predecessor—while it is scarcely long enough, thick enough, or strong enough to execute a parry without a risk of being shivered to atoms.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Conway, of the Boston Commonwealth, now in England, thus describes the personal appearance of the great unorthodox Bishop:

"Walking along a thoroughfare the other day I encountered a man who, I suppose would arrest attention among any thousand. Almost seven feet high, slender but well formed, remarkably erect and handsome, with clear cut features and eyes full of light—there walked the present Banquo of the English Church, Bishop Colenso.

The Earthquake in England

The shock of an earthquake, more or less severe, was felt in all parts of England at about 22 minutes after three o'clock on the morning of October 6th. At some places the shock is represented as having been quite severe, and accompanied by a loud rumbling report, while at others it was slight and without noise. No damage was sustained anywhere. At Great Malvern the windows of the Imperial Hotel, a very large and massive building at the foot of the Malvern Hills, were violently rattled, and it is said that one of the railway signals was displaced. Servants ran down stairs in affright and general consternation appears to have been felt. In the town of Dudley the shock was severely felt, beds being violently shaken, and in some instances doors burst open, crockery ware broken and clocks stopped. In detached buildings in various parts of the town the effect is described as being most terrifying. The shock was followed by a rumbling sound similar to that experienced by persons sleeping immediately over a tunnel as trains were passing. Many inhabitants left their beds and congregated in the street, discussing the extraordinary phenomenon. The shock appears to have been felt the most in the midland and west midland counties. It extended to Bristol, to Taunton, to Exeter, to Swansea, and to many miles out at sea. In some places a deep rumbling noise was heard. At Nottingham the noise resembled the sound of a heavy carriage approaching. The phenomena at Hereford is minutely described by the clergyman of Strattan. He says the sound at first increased with a gradual crescendo for two or three seconds until the crash was felt which lasted for one second and a half, and consisted of two concussions, and then subsided as gradually for some seconds, until it died away in the distance. It appeared to have been equal to the loudest peal, but it was fuller, and deeper, and greater than thunder. In about three minutes afterwards, a second faint rumble was heard.

Hints to the Friends of Soldiers.

OFFICERS' HOSPITAL, NASHVILLE,
October 21, 1863.

Mr. Editor:—As the time is fast approaching when the friends of our brave soldiers will begin to think of sending their Christmas presents, in the form of edibles, I would like to make a few suggestions which can be taken for what they are worth.

It is a fact not generally known, that three-fourths of the articles prepared, boxed up and forwarded to the soldiers, reach their destination in such a condition as renders them entirely worthless. Having witnessed the opening of hundreds of these boxes, I am prepared to speak from a personal knowledge of the facts. The contents usually comprise the following: Preserved and canned fruits, jellies, pies, cakes, confections, nuts, cheese, and dried beef; to which is often added a roasted fowl. The jars of fruits and jellies are generally broken, and the contents spread throughout the box. The pies are mouldy, the cakes stale, and the roast fowls in a state of decomposition. The object of the generosity is defeated, and the soldier disappointed. As I profess to know something of the wants of the soldier, I will simply state what I think would be most acceptable to any or all of Uncle Sam's boys.

Procure a strong box, large enough to contain one gallon of home made pickles—not the small, hard, acid-eaten articles found on sale in the store, but the old-fashioned cucumber pickle, six or eight inches in length, and swimming in pure cider-vinegar—a one-gallon jar of sour kraut, one peck of nice onions, one half-pint of condensed milk, two dozen nicely-flavored apples, one smoked and dried beef tongue, one can cove oysters, two or three pounds home made sausage—stuffed—one pound good tobacco, and a few fine cigars. To these might be added a good book and a few illustrated newspapers, and my word for it, the articles will not only reach the soldier in good order, but will give him a greater satisfaction than any conglomerated mess of sweet-meats that could be sent to him.

I would like to see the substance of this note published in all the newspapers, as I believe it would be endorsed by nine-tenths of the army. W. T. P.

Paris (Oct. 2) Correspondence Liverpool Journal.

Maximilian's Golden Sceptre.

The golden sceptre to be presented by the Mexican deputation to the Archduke Maximilian was seen by a few of the initiated in Paris during the stay of the notables here.

It is a thick gold stick about the size, in circumference, of a very fat alderman's thumb, and of about eighteen inches in length. The gold is from the mines of Mexico, and the four large emeralds which adorn the handle are likewise of Mexican produce. The ruby fixed at the end, and which is said to send back the seven rays of the star in the sunlight, was taken from the watch-chain of Iturbide, where that unfortunate monarch wore it for some time, always with the intention of having it engraved as a signet ring, indicative of the imperial dignity which it was his intention to have borne with so much magnificence. The fleuron into which the head of the sceptre is carved represents something very like a fleur de lis, at which our gazers here were most astonished. But Mexican art has not yet reached a very high standard, and the exact emblem intended for representation is not absolutely evident to the sight. The sceptre is rich enough, and will serve as an imperial policeman's baton, to be used according to the great inspector's orders. It is a pity that the same notables who come provided with the sceptre for governing the people of Mexico do not come with instructions how to use it. The first false moment in the exercise of this new and strange weapon—the first thrust will render the bearer liable to the same fate as that of his predecessor—while it is scarcely long enough, thick enough, or strong enough to execute a parry without a risk of being shivered to atoms.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Conway, of the Boston Commonwealth, now in England, thus describes the personal appearance of the great unorthodox Bishop:

"Walking along a thoroughfare the other day I encountered a man who, I suppose would arrest attention among any thousand. Almost seven feet high, slender but well formed, remarkably erect and handsome, with clear cut features and eyes full of light—there walked the present Banquo of the English Church, Bishop Colenso.

WHAT C. L. VALLANDIGHAM SAID!

"I HAVE NOT VOTED FOR ANY ARMY OR NAVY BILL, OR ANY ARMY OR NAVY APPROPRIATION, SINCE THE MEETING OF CONGRESS ON THE 4TH OF JULY, 1861.—Vallandigham, Dayton, August, 1862.

"He [Vallandigham] does not think reunion can ever be accomplished by coercion; but goes for peace, hoping that Union may result; BUT AT ANY RATE HE GOES FOR PEACE, PREFERRING EVEN SEPARATION TO SUBJUGATION OR EXTERMINATION."—Wilmington, N. C., Journal.

"I propose to * * * recognize the existence of sections as a fixed fact."

"I propose to establish FOUR instead of two grand sections of the Union."—Speech Feb. 20, 1861.

"Then, sir, I am not a southern man neither—ALTHOUGH IN THIS MOST UNHOLY AND UNCONSTITUTIONAL CRUSADE AGAINST the SOUTH, in the midst of the INVASION, ARSON, INSURRECTION AND MURDER TO WHICH SHE HAS BEEN SUBJECT, and with which she is still threatened—with the TORCH OF THE INCENDIARY AND THE DAGGER OF THE ASSASSIN SUSPENDED OVER HER—MY MOST CORDIAL SYMPATHIES ARE WHOLLY WITH HER."—Page 41, Val's Record.

WHAT H. L. PALMER SAID!

I HOPE TO SEE THE DISGRACEFUL ASSAULT UPON AMERICAN RIGHTS IN THE PERSON OF VALLANDIGHAM, CULMINATE IN HIS ELECTION TO THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR OF OHIO.

It is estimated that 1,500 men will cover our entire losses in the recent operations in Northern Virginia, including killed, wounded, stragglers and prisoners.

The Nashville (Tenn.) Union urges immigration to that state from the north, and pertinently says, "We know of many a rebel in Davidson county whom we would gladly swop off for a dozen of the brave men who have come to redeem us from treason."

A gentleman at St. Paul, Minnesota, has produced, after long labor, six automatic figures, three of each sex, life size, and so closely resembling live persons as to deceive all but the closest observers. They play upon musical instruments and mind their own business a great deal better than some live people we know of.

The New York banks now hold 28 millions of specie, which is ten millions less than last July. Mr. Chase's pile has in-

The Lesson of the Hour.

The Albany Journal says: The democracy have been everywhere overthrown. In Connecticut and Rhode Island last spring: in Kentucky, California and Maine in August; in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Iowa in October;—the same story of defeat and shame is told. There is no variation of the current; it flows from every quarter in the same direction. These results are due to no popular freaks; they depend upon no sudden whims or tricks of fortune. They spring from deeper depths than the varying impulses of the hour—they spring from the firm and settled convictions of the popular mind.

The moral of these elections is instructive. It teaches the important lesson that the people will tolerate no doubtful attitude on the part of their leaders on the supreme question of the Union, and will remain faithful to party only so long as party remains faithful to the country. It admonishes those who would direct political affairs that factious opposition to the government in time of national peril is sure to be rebuked by the masses; and that every effort to embarrass those in power in the prosecution of a war for national honor and national existence is sure to bring disgrace and defeat to the authors.

The democratic leaders must have been blind to all the admonitions of history, not to know this. There is no lesson which the past more impressively enforces. Every page of the annals of states is eloquent with it. There is not an instance on record of a party opposing a war, in time of war, succeeding. Because, from the hour that the government resolves to appeal to the sword, the honor of the nation becomes involved in the struggle. The war may be unjust. It may have been undertaken in opposition to the popular wish. But after it has been once entered on, the people always side with the government. They forget the mistakes of the rulers; they forget their own antipathies even; they only remember that the honor of the country, as a military power, is at stake. They cease to see anything in the conflict but the national flag; and the instinct that always rally around it, is divine!

And being patriotic themselves, they are intolerant even of the appearance of the want of it in their leaders. They will spurn the most cherished idols on the slightest suspicion that they are unsound on the one great vital issue.

And so it will ever be. The people will cling to the national flag in the hour of danger. And the greater the danger the more tenaciously will they cling. Woe to those false teachers who try to persude them to let go of it! The swift lightnings of popular vengeance will strike and blast them.

How the War was Commenced—What was done before President Lincoln was Inaugurated.

We quote the conclusion of the first chapter of Mr. Edward A. Pollard's "First year of the War," written and first printed at Richmond by one of the prime movers of the rebellion. He says:

"On the incoming of the administration of Abraham Lincoln, on the 4th of March, the rival government of the south had perfected its organization; the separation had been widened and envenomed by the ambidexterity and perfidy of President Buchanan; the southern people, however, still hoped for a peaceful accomplishment of their independence, and deplored war between the two sections, as a "policy detrimental to the civilized world." The revolution, in the meantime, had rapidly gathered, not only in the moral power, but in the means of war and the muniment of defence. Fort Moultrie and Castle Pinckney had been captured by the South Carolina troops; Fort Pulaski, the defence of the Savannah, had been taken; the arsenal at Mt. Vernon, Alabama, with 20,000 stand of arms, had been seized by the Alabama troops; Forts Jackson, St. Phillip and Pike, near New Orleans, had been captured by the Louisiana troops; the Pensacola Navy yard and Forts Barrancas and McRae had been taken and the siege of Fort Pickens commenced; the Baton Rouge arsenal had been surrendered to the Louisiana troops; the New Orleans mint and custom house had been taken; the Little Rock arsenal had been seized by the Arkansas troops; and on the 16th of February, General Twiggs had transferred the public property in Texas to the state authorities. All of these events had been accomplished without bloodshed."

A Horrible Affair.

We take the following account of a most horrible affair, from the Cleveland Plaindealer. It says: "Three weeks ago a young man named George Beaver, about twenty years of age, stole $300 from his employer, a merchant of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, and decamped. Beaver arrived in this city last week, and remained here a short time, when he proceeded to Norwalk, in which place he had a few friends. A day or two since he called upon a young lady acquaintance, and requested a private interview which was granted. He then told her that he was on the point of killing himself, at the same time producing a revolver. The lady seized his arm and tried to get the weapon from him. During the struggle Beaver exclaimed: 'Stand aside, or my brains will be spattered over your person!' The lady then did as he desired, when the wretch placed the muzzle against his forehead, and blew the top of his head completely off.

"Upon the person of the deceased was found eighty cents in money and a pawn ticket for a gold watch, from which he parted while in Cincinnati not long since. In answer to a telegram describing the sad affair, Beaver's parents—who are poor people at Fond du Lac—directed that his remains should be buried at Norwalk."

The public debt on the 1st of September, 1863, was one thousand two hundred and twenty-eight millions eight hundred and thirty-two thousand and seven hundred and seventy-one dollars.

Mr. Theodore Tilton, editor-in-chief of the New York Indedendent in the absence of Mr. Beecher, having been drafted, has sent to the war an experienced Prussian sergeant substitute, worth any two undisciplined men that can be found; and yet, in the face of this fact, the copperhead press of New York is daily teeming with abuse of Mr. Tilton because he has not gone to the war himself. Comment is unnecessary.

Gen. G. W. Thomas, the new commander of the Army of the Cumberland, is said by the Philadelphia Press to have been in the regular army twelve years without be-

Correspondence of the Chicago Journal.

About Our Sick and wounded Soldiers—Woman's Work of Love and Mercy.

ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND, October 22, 1863.

Before this letter reaches you, the splendid project of the women of the north-west will be blossoming in full beauty. They will have thronged to the city of the great lakes "like doves to their windows," their hearts and offerings in their hands; and art, eloquence and song, the grand pageant, the classic tableau, the exquisite device, the glowing thought, will have been hallowed to the sweet uses of mercy. The lips of the marble images at Mecca were worn away, they say, by the kisses of the pilgrims, but how must the delicate touch of true and loving women smooth and beautify the iron fate of our glorious boys in blue!

Close beside the scene that brightens your city like a carnival, garlanded with flowers and glad with sunshine, I see a shadow strange and sad. I am not sure that the laughing girls who make a Sharon of the soldiers fair discern how heavy the borders of that night whence comes the dawn they smile in. I am not sure I can do better than to give an unstudied story of the unseen side of that golden shield of theirs—no silver side, alas, but dark, dull iron. The Ohio at Louisville behind you, southward across Kentucky and Tennessee you look upon the region in the rear of the army of the Cumberland, a breadth of three hundred and eight miles to the spurs of the mountains. That area once so lovely is dappled with those shadows strange and sad—the hospitals of the federal army. At Chattanooga, at Bridgeport, at Stevenson, at Cowen, at Decherd, at Murfreesboro, at Nashville, strown all along the way, are flocks of tents sacred to mercy and the soldiers' sake. I wish I could bring you near enough to see them; that I could lift aside a fold in ward A here, or ward B there; that you might see the pale rows, each man upon his little couch, the white sheet setting close to the poor, thin limbs like the drapery of the grave. It would wonderfully magnify, I think, the work you are doing, my sisters.

I would not take you to the surgeon's quarters when the battle is beginning; when he lays off the green sash and the tinseled coat, and rolls up his sleeves, and spreads wide his cases filled with the terrible glitter of silver steel, and makes ready for work. They begin to come in, slowly at first, one man nursing a shattered arm, another borne by his comrades, three in an ambulance, one on a stretcher; then faster and faster, lying here, lying there, waiting each his terrible turn. The silver steel grows cloudy and lurid; true right arms are lopped like slips of golden willow; feet that never turned from the foe, forever more without an owner, strow the ground. The knives are busy, the saws play; it is bloody work. Ah, the surgeon with heart and head, with hand and eye fit for such a place, is a prince among men; cool and calm, quick and tender, he feels among the arteries and fingers the tendons as if they were harp strings. But the cloud thunders and the spiteful rain patters louder and fiercer, and the poor fellows come creeping away in broken ranks like corn beaten down with the flails of the storm. "My God!" cried a surgeon, as looking up an instant from his work, he saw the mutilated crowds borne in; "my God! are all my boys cut down?" And yet it thundered and rained. A poor fellow writhes and a smothered moan escapes him. "Be patient, Jack," says the surgeon, cheerfully; "I'll make you all right in a minute." And what a meaning there was in that "all right!" It was a right arm to come off at the elbow, and "Jack" slipped off a ring that clasped one of the poor, useless fingers that were to blend with the earth of Alabama, and put it in his pocket! He was making ready for the "all right." Does "Alabama" mean "here we rest?" If so, how sad yet glorious have our boys made it, who sink to rest

"With all their country's wishes blest!"

Another sits up while the surgeon follows the bullet that has buried itself in his side; it is the work of an instant; no solemn council here, no lingering pause; the surgeon is bathed in patriot blood to his elbows, and the work goes on. An eye lies out upon a ghastly cheek, and silently the sufferer bides his time. "Well, Charley," says the doctor, he is dressing a wound as he talks, "what's the matter?" "Oh, not much, Doctor, only a hand off." Not unlike was the answer made me by a poor fellow, at Bridgeport, shattered as a tree is by lightning; "how are you now?" I said. "Bully!" was the reply. You should have heard that word, as he said it; vulgar as it used to seem, it grew manly and noble, and I shall never hear it again without a thought for the boy that uttered it, on the dusty slope of the Tennessee; the boy—must I say it?—that sleeps the soldier's sleep within an hundred rods of the spot where I found him. And so it is everywhere; not a whimper nor a plaint. Only once did I hear either. An Illinois lieutenant, as brave a fellow as ever drew a sword, had been shot through and through the thighs, fairly impaled by the bullet—the ugliest wound but one I ever saw. Eight days before he weighed one hundred and sixty. Then, he could not have swung one hundred and twenty clear of the floor.

He had just been brought over the mountain; his wounds were angry with fever; every motion was torture; they were lifting him as tenderly as they could; they let him slip and he fell, perhaps six inches. But it was like a dash from a precipice to him, and he wailed out like a little child, tears wet his thin, pale face, and he only said, "my poor child, how will they tell her?" It was only for an instant; his spirit and his frame stiffened up together, and with a half smile he said, "don't tell anybody, boys, that I made a fool of myself." The lieutenant "sleeps well," and alas, for the "poor child"—how did they tell her?

A soldier fairly riddled with bullets, like one of those battle flags of Illinois, lay on a blanket gasping for breath. "Jemmy," said a comrade, and a friend before this cruel war began, with one arm swung up in a sling, and who was going home on furlough, "Jemmy, what shall I tell them at home for you?" "Tell them," said he, "that there isn't hardly enough left of me to say 'I,' but—hold down here a minute—tell Kate there is enough of me left to love her till I die." Jemmy got his furlough that night, and left the ranks forever. It seems to me that all true women must envy that girl's fate. Shot away all but his heart, that still beat true, who would not be the dead soldier's bride forever? Oh, there is nothing anywhere here to make you blush for human weakness; the rebel bullet is not moulded that can kill western manhood.

[Concluded to-morrow.]

A SCORCHING REBUKE.—A highly instructive as well as amusing incident took place in one of the business houses on one of our principal streets, last Saturday, while the colored regiment was marching along to the music of the national airs. Several gentlemen were looking on the parade, among them a wealthy planter of Alabama, who is a large slaveholder. One of the group stepped out of the door, looking for a few minutes, and then indignantly turning on his heel, addressed himself to the grave Alabamian, to the following purport:

"Well, I'll be d—d if that is not a burn- [illegible] man can tolerate. Isn't that nigger regiment too great an insult?

"Sir, there is not a negro in that regiment who is not a better man than a rebel to this government, and for whom I have not a thousand times more respect than I have for a traitor to his country. I think that the best possible use the government can make of the negroes is to take them and make them fight against the rebels. No traitor is too good to be killed by a negro, no weapon too severe to use against the wretches who are endeavoring to overthrow the government. Now, sir, swallow that, whether you like it or not."

The rebel darted off in utter amazement, without uttering a syllable of reply, leaving the sturdy Alabamian, who cherished the jewel of patriotism as something more precious than flocks of slaves, "alone in his glory."—Nashville Union.

Last Night's Report.

FORTRESS MONROE, Oct. 29.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 27th has the following:

"CHARLESTON, Oct. 26.—The enemy's batteries Gregg and Wagner opened this morning from seven guns in the former and four from the latter. The fire was principally directed against Sumter and Johnson. Two monitors were also engaged. The firing ceased at dark. One hundred shots were thrown from Morris Island, one hundred and sixty from the Monitors. No damage done. Our batteries replied vigorously."

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 28.

Special to Chicago Tribune.—The mass meeting here to-night was the most immense affair ever witnessed here. Monument Square was packed with a mass stretching from side to side. The procession was made up from all the wards with transparencies, etc., and the enthusiasm was beyond bounds. The platforms were covered with some of the most prominent men of Maryland, and draped in flags and crowed with mottoes.

Among the mottoes on the transparencies such as these were most prominent: "Freedom dawns on Maryland." "Slavery is dead, its treason killed it." "We go the government at any cost." "Here are the East Baltimore emancipationists." "Slavery, the shame spot of the 19th century." "How are you now Vallandigham." "Free labor and free speech." "Away with slavery." "Down with slavery, and up with human rights," and several with figures of negro soldiers, and such phrases as "I gibs it to de copperheads;" "I fight for de Union," etc., etc.

Henry Winter Davis, the first speaker, said he had just returned from carrying the war into Africa in the lower counties of Maryland; that the struggle was over, the victory already won, and nothing remained but the formal proclamation of the verdict the people had already decreed.

Secretary Chase was received with immense cheering, and made a very brief and some little speech, exciting the utmost enthusiasm.

Gen. Garfield, a representative from New Orleans, Judge Kelly, of Philadelphia, Sam. Galloway, of Columbus, Ohio, and John Covode, of Pennsylvania, made short and stirring speeches, and Maryland speakers are at this hour (after 11 o'clock) continuing the meeting.

There is no hesitancy about putting the issue in the squarest terms. It is THE IMMEDIATE AND UNCONDITIONAL DESTRUCTION OF SLAVERY.

A banquet is now being given at the Eutaw House, to Secretary Chase, and other distinguished guests.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.

The State Union League of Massachusetts has elected Gen. B. F. Butler of Lowell and Mr. Claflin of Newton, delegates at large to the National Union League, which meets at Washington in December. Delegates from each congressional district were also chosen.

Gen. Butler addressed the meeting at length, taking ground with those who believe that the seceded states have annihilated themselves as states, while the power of the general government still remains intact over their territory.

He opposed the position of a member of the cabinet that the rebel commonwealths, by throwing down their arms, should be received into the Union with unimpaired rights with their old local institutions. His reasons for dictating terms before allowing the incorporation into the Union of these heretofore hostile sections, sprang from demonstrations vitally affecting the interests and safety of the nation. If the confederate states are re-admitted and their representatives take their seats in congress before some radical change is effected, what guarantee is there that the federal national debt will not be repudiated, or made to stand upon the alternative that the confederate debt must likewise be paid; and let this question come before congress and all the appliance of corruption would be set in motion to secure such a decision as would place THE FEDERAL AND REBEL INDEBTEDNESS UPON THE SAME FOOTING.

Gen. Butler contended that the rebel states must be regarded as destroyed, or it would be almost impossible to choose another president, for the reason that no candidate likely to be selected would receive such a support in the north as to give him a majority of the whole electoral college, constituted of all the states, both loyal and rebel. Transfer the question to the house of representatives, where each common wealth casts only one vote, and a majority of such votes is required, and the difficulty will be greatly increased. The policy of safety and justice was to restore the Union in the south only as fast as the principles of freedom and loyalty are extended over the now rebel domain.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 29.

Lieut. Col. J. B. Brownlow, of the 9th Tennessee cavalry, arrived in the city day before yesterday, to obtain clothing and equipments for his regiment. He informs us that there is no doubt but that E. Tennessee will adopt immediate measures for emancipating its slaves. Over eight thousand recruits have been obtained since Gen. Burnside entered Knoxville; two regiments of these are from the parts of North Carolina and Georgia bordering on East Tennessee. Parson Brownlow issued the first number of his new paper on the 26th inst., which date is exactly two years from the day upon which the Knoxville Whig was suppressed.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 29.

The Royal Mail steamer City of Washington, from Liverpool, Oct. 21, via Queenstown, Oct. 22, passed Cape Race this noon. She was boarded by the news yacht, and the following summary of her news obtained, which is one day later:

Henry Ward Beecher addressed an immense audience in Exeter Hall, London, on the 20th, upon the interests of the north. A few expressions of dissent were drowned in the general plaudits of the vast assemblage.

The Daily News says this was one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held in London, and must have convinced Mr. Beecher of the truth of Earl Russell's assertion that the great body of the English people were with the north, and cause him to return home as a messenger of peace and good-will between the two countries.

The Times combats Mr. Beecher's argument, and declares that he is not the man to convert the British people to the federal cause.

It was rumored that France was strongly urging the expulsion of the ex King of Naples from Rome.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.

A Chattanooga letter to the Herald says deserters continue to come into our lines, notwithstanding the extraordinary measures taken to prevent them. Nine men, one a commissioned officer, Tennesseeans, came in yesterday. The officer, who is intelligent, and apparently honest, tells a tale which is cheering and inspiring to all good Union men, and which corroborates previous information.

He says a full brigade of Tennesseeans with their general at their head attempted to come through to our lines in a body, one day last week, and that a division of staunch rebels was called out to prevent them. A fight of the most sanguinary character ensued, in which artillery, musketry and bayonets were used for three or four hours, resulting in the overpowering of the discontented Tennesseeans, after some 800 men had been slaughtered on both sides.

The sound of the cannon was distinctly heard in our lines at the time, but nobody could explain the phenomenon of the brisk fire so close to the enemy's rear. The officers say the matter was hushed up, and has since been kept so quiet that the extremes of Bragg's army knew nothing definite about it.

Thomas and Granger, who are now universally acknowledged the saviors of the army, are to each have a splendid corps, three divisions in each, with able commanders at their head. The brigades will probably be composed of not less than nine regiments each. In fact, the whole machinery of the army, when reorganized, will be less complicated and more effective. The health of the army, notwithstanding the labor and anxiety it has experienced, is very good. A large field hospital is established in a lovely valley two miles from the town, north of the river, and the sick receive the best of care and food.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 29.

The steamship Germania, from Hamburg, via Southampton 21st, passed Cape Race this morning, and was boarded by the news yacht. Dates are three days later.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The British admiralty had decided to construct a new squadron of iron gunboats, armor plated double screw propellers, to be armed with two heavy Armstrong guns.

The Alabama, Georgia and Tuscarora continue cruising around the coast of the Cape of Good Hope. The Vanderbilt had arrived at the Cape in pursuit of the Alabama, and was repairing in Simon's Bay.

Capt. Semmes has sold the bark Sea Bride. No further captures had been made by the rebel vessels. Capt. Semmes will not, from motives of policy, seek an engagement with the Vanderbilt, but if his vessel should be blockaded in Simon Bay by her, will endeavor to elude her, as she did the San Jacinto at Martinique.

Capt. Semmes is of the opinion that the Vanderbilt is very much faster than the Alabama, and that if she should come to close quarters he could not get away from her.

FRANCE.—The Moniteur says the movements in the Caucassus are serious. The Pays denies that France participated in the negotiations upon the Polish question, and states that Austria and England are endeavoring to come to an understanding on the subject of an identical note. France awaits the result of the negotiations. Europe knows that France will adhere to every act according with existing circumstances, and satisfying public opinion in Europe, which the agreement of the three powers desire to represent.

Rentes closed at 60f to 67f 20c.

JAPAN.—Admiral Kuper's fleet had arrived at Roscosema. Negotiations failing to obtain the satisfaction demanded, Kuper besieged the city and leveled it to the ground. He then set on fire Prince Satisma's three steamers, and returned. Roscosema is one mass of ruins, palace, factories and arsenals all destroyed.

To-Day's Report.

[Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.]

MORNING DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Oct 29.

Special to World.—Everything is quiet in front, to day, though this evening's Republican announces that Gen. Meade is feeling the enemy and will soon make an important movement. Refugees come within our lines and report that Hood's division of Longstreet's corps has returned from Bragg's army to Lee. The railroad to Rappahannock will be completed in about four days. Yesterday's Richmond papers were received, but contain nothing new. All quiet at the west and at Charleston. The rumors telegraphed here from the north of rioting in Richmond are contradicted by passengers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.

Tribune's special. - A gentleman recently from Vicksburg says the Mississippi has been and is unusually low, and only gun boats of light draft can navigate the stream. Dangers to navigation from snags are increased by the presence of guerrillas, and almost every vessel passing receives vollies at different points. A number of boats have been destroyed by guerillas, the plan being to pick off the pilots, when the boats becoming unmanageable are run ashore and are then attacked, plundered and destroyed, the passengers being left on the bank to go whethersoever they can. The navigation of the river is likely to be seriously affected in this manner as no conveyance can be sent with boats. The work of strengthening and increasing the fortifications of Vicksburg is steadily pregressing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

The steamer Eagle from Havana of the 24th has arrived. A Havana letter to the Herald states that the insurgents in St. Domingo had completely destroyed the town of Puerto Plate, and gained a great advantage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

The Richmond despatch of the 26th states that on the 16th inst., a company of Partizan Rangers under the command of Maj. Edgar Burrows attacked the steamer J. B. White, on Albermarle and Chesapeake canal, capturing and burning her with a dredging machine and two lighters, which she was towing. This steamer is the same vessel which ran out of Norfolk to Fortress Monroe last year. She was on her way to Great Shoals, and was captured at a place called Bethel. Her crew and passengers were taken into a swamp near by and paroled. The steamer is valued at $30,000. Major Burrows also attacked the mail steamer Fawn on the canal, but though a heavy fire was poured into her she got away.

Never attempt to talk much about that which you do not understand.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

Flour dull for common grades, firm for choice, at 6.25a6.30 for extra state; 7.25a7.30 for R H O. Wheat receipts 70,288; dull, 1c lower at 1.33a1.37 for Chicago spring; 1.32a1.37 for Milwaukee club; 1.37a1.39 for Iowa amber; 1.38a1.140 for western red winter. From the Richmond despatch.—Commissioner Ould returned from an interview with the yankee commissioner Meridith, who intimated that he had no power to negotiate for further exchanges, that Stanton always opposed any exchanges of prisoners during the war, and his policy never was the policy of the government. This will be the last interview, unless desired, for the renewal comes from the other side.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 29.

Lookout Mountain was taken on the 28th by our troops, under Gen. Hooker, with the 11th corps, and a portion of the 12th, and Palmer's division of the 4th corps. There is no serious opposition. The river is now open to Chattanooga and the army of the Cumberland is relieved from any danger threatened by interrupted communication.

General Palmer has been promoted to the command of the 14th corps, over Rosseau, Reynolds and Sheridan. Rosseau is very ill. General Mitchell is relieved from the cavalry command, and ordered to report here. He is now in the city. The river is four feet on the shoals.

DIED.

On Friday, October 30th, 1863 ELIZABETH, wife of M. F. McKey, of this city, aged 25 years.

The funeral will take place at her late residence at two o'clock P. M on Sunday next. Services at Christ Church.

WHAT C. L. VALLANDIGHAM SAID!

"I HAVE NOT VOTED FOR ANY ARMY OR NAVY BILL, OR ANY ARMY OR NAVY APPROPRIATION, SINCE THE MEETING OF CONGRESS ON THE 4TH OF JULY, 1861.—Vallandigham, Dayton, August, 1862.

"He [Vallandigham] does not think reunion can ever be accomplished by coercion; but goes for peace, hoping that Union may result; BUT AT ANY RATE HE GOES FOR PEACE, PREFERRING EVEN SEPARATION TO SUBJUGATION OR EXTERMINATION."—Wilmington, N. C., Journal.

"I propose to * * * recognize the existence of sections as a fixed fact."

"I propose to establish FOUR instead of two grand sections of the Union."—Speech Feb. 20, 1861.

"Then, sir, I am not a southern man neither—ALTHOUGH IN THIS MOST UNHOLY AND UNCONSTITUTIONAL CRUSADE AGAINST the SOUTH, in the midst of the INVASION, ARSON, INSURRECTION AND MURDER TO WHICH SHE HAS BEEN SUBJECT, and with which she is still threatened—with the TORCH OF THE INCENDIARY AND THE DAGGER OF THE ASSASSIN SUSPENDED OVER HER—MY MOST CORDIAL SYMPATHIES ARE WHOLLY WITH HER."—Page 44, Val's Record.

WHAT H. L. PALMER SAID!

I HOPE TO SEE THE DISGRACEFUL ASSAULT UPON AMERICAN RIGHTS IN THE PERSON OF VALLANDIGHAM, CULMINATE IN HIS ELECTION TO THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR OF OHIO.

It is estimated that 1,500 men will cover our entire losses in the recent operations in Northern Virginia, including killed, wounded, stragglers and prisoners.

The Nashville (Tenn.) Union urges immigration to that state from the north, and pertinently says, "We know of many a rebel in Davidson county whom we would gladly swop off for a dozen of the brave men who have come to redeem us from treason."

A gentleman at St. Paul, Minnesota, has produced, after long labor, six automatic figures, three of each sex, life size, and so closely resembling live persons as to deceive all but the closest observers. They play upon musical instruments and mind their own business a great deal better than some live people we know of.

"The New York banks now hold 28 millions of specie, which is ten millions less than last July. Mr. Chase's pile has in-

The Lesson of the Hour.

The Albany Journal says: The democracy have been everywhere overthrown. In Connecticut and Rhode Island last spring; in Kentucky, California and Maine in August; in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Iowa in October;—the same story of defeat and shame is told. There is no variation of the current; it flows from every quarter in the same direction. These results are due to no popular freaks; they depend upon no sudden whims or tricks of fortune. They spring from deeper depths than the varying impulses of the hour—they spring from the firm and settled convictions of the popular mind.

The moral of these elections is instructive. It teaches the important lesson that the people will tolerate no doubtful attitude on the part of their leaders on the supreme question of the Union, and will remain faithful to party only so long as party remains faithful to the country. It admonishes those who would direct political affairs that factious opposition to the government in time of national peril is sure to be rebuked by the masses; and that every effort to embarrass those in power in the prosecution of a war for national honor and national existence is sure to bring disgrace and defeat to the authors.

The democratic leaders must have been blind to all the admonitions of history, not to know this. There is no lesson which the past more impressively enforces. Every page of the annals of states is eloquent with it. There is not an instance on record of a party opposing a war, in time of war, succeeding. Because, from the hour that the government resolves to appeal to the sword, the honor of the nation becomes involved in the struggle. The war may be unjust. It may have been undertaken in opposition to the popular wish. But after it has been once entered on, the people always side with the government. They forget the mistakes of the rulers; they forget their own antipathies even; they only remember that the honor of the country, as a military power, is at stake. They cease to see anything in the conflict but the national flag; and the instinct that always rally around it, is divine!

And being patriotic themselves, they are intolerant even of the appearance of the want of it in their leaders. They will spurn the most cherished idols on the slightest suspicion that they are unsound on the one great vital issue.

And so it will ever be. The people will cling to the national flag in the hour of danger. And the greater the danger the more tenaciously will they cling. Woe to those false teachers who try to persude them to let go of it! The swift lightnings of popular vengeance will strike and blast them.

How the War was Commenced—What was done before President Lincoln was Inaugurated.

We quote the conclusion of the first chapter of Mr. Edward A. Pollard's "First year of the War," written and first printed at Richmond by one of the prime movers of the rebellion. He says:

"On the incoming of the administration of Abraham Lincoln, on the 4th of March, the rival government of the south had perfected its organization; the separation had been widened and envenomed by the ambidexterity and perfidy of President Buchanan; the southern people, however, still hoped for a peaceful accomplishment of their independence, and deplored war between the two sections, as a "policy detrimental to the civilized world." The revolution, in the meantime, had rapidly gathered, not only in the moral power, but in the means of war and the muniment of defence. Fort Moultrie and Castle Pinckney had been captured by the South Carolina troops; Fort Pulaski, the defence of the Savannah, had been taken; the arsenal at Mt. Vernon, Alabama, with 20,000 stand of arms, had been seized by the Alabama troops; Forts Jackson, St. Phillip and Pike, near New Orleans, had been captured by the Louisiana troops; the Pensacola Navy yard and Forts Barrancas and McRae had been taken and the siege of Fort Pickens commenced; the Baton Rouge arsenal had been surrendered to the Louisiana troops; the New Orleans mint and custom house had been taken; the Little Rock arsenal had been seized by the Arkansas troops; and on the 16th of February, General Twiggs had transferred the public property in Texas to the state authorities. All of these events had been accomplished without bloodshed."

A Horrible Affair.

We take the following account of a most horrible affair, from the Cleveland Plaindealer. It says: "Three weeks ago a young man named George Beaver, about twenty years of age, stole $300 from his employer, a merchant of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, and decamped. Beaver arrived in this city last week, and remained here a short time, when he proceeded to Norwalk, in which place he had a few friends. A day or two since he called upon a young lady acquaintance, and requested a private interview which was granted. He then told her that he was on the point of killing himself, at the same time producing a revolver. The lady seized his arm and tried to get the weapon from him. During the struggle Beaver exclaimed: 'Stand aside, or my brains will be spattered over your person!' The lady then did as he desired, when the wretch placed the muzzle against his forehead, and blew the top of his head completely off.

"Upon the person of the deceased was found eighty cents in money and a pawn ticket for a gold watch, from which he parted while in Cincinnati not long since. In answer to a telegram describing the sad affair, Beaver's parents—who are poor people at Fond du Lac—directed that his remains should be buried at Norwalk."

The public debt on the 1st of September, 1863, was one thousand two hundred and twenty-eight millions eight hundred and thirty-two thousand and seven hundred and seventy-one dollars.

Mr. Theodore Tilton, editor-in-chief of the New York Indedendent in the absence of Mr. Beecher, having been drafted, has sent to the war an experienced Prussian sergeant substitute, worth any two undisciplined men that can be found; and yet, in the face of this fact, the copperhead press of New York is daily teeming with abuse of Mr. Tilton because he has not gone to the war himself. Comment is unnecessary.

Gen. G. W. Thomas, the new commander of the Army of the Cumberland, is said by the Philadelphia Press to have been in the regular army twelve years without being absent a day from his post.

Correspondence of the Chicago Journal.

About Our Sick and wounded Soldiers—Woman's Work of Love and Mercy.

ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND, October 22, 1863.

Before this letter reaches you, the splendid project of the women of the north-west will be blossoming in full beauty. They will have thronged to the city of the great lakes "like doves to their windows," their hearts and offerings in their hands; and art, eloquence and song, the grand pageant, the classic tableau, the exquisite device, the glowing thought, will have been hallowed to the sweet uses of mercy. The lips of the marble images at Mecca were worn away, they say, by the kisses of the pilgrims, but how must the delicate touch of true and loving women smooth and beautify the iron fate of our glorious boys in blue!

Close beside the scene that brightens your city like a carnival, garlanded with flowers and glad with sunshine, I see a shadow strange and sad. I am not sure that the laughing girls who make a Sharon of the soldiers fair discern how heavy the borders of that night whence comes the dawn they smile in. I am not sure I can do better than to give an unstudied story of the unseen side of that golden shield of theirs—no silver side, alas, but dark, dull iron. The Ohio at Louisville behind you, southward across Kentucky and Tennessee you look upon the region in the rear of the army of the Cumberland, a breadth of three hundred and eight miles to the spurs of the mountains. That area once so lovely is dappled with those shadows strange and sad—the hospitals of the federal army. At Chattanooga, at Bridgeport, at Stevenson, at Cowen, at Decherd, at Murfreesboro, at Nashville, strown all along the way, are flocks of tents sacred to mercy and the soldiers' sake. I wish I could bring you near enough to see them; that I could lift aside a fold in ward A here, or ward B there; that you might see the pale rows, each man upon his little couch, the white sheet setting close to the poor, thin limbs like the drapery of the grave. It would wonderfully magnify, I think, the work you are doing, my sisters.

I would not take you to the surgeon's quarters when the battle is beginning; when he lays off the green sash and the tinseled coat, and rolls up his sleeves, and spreads wide his cases filled with the terrible glitter of silver steel, and makes ready for work. They begin to come in, slowly at first, one man nursing a shattered arm, another borne by his comrades, three in an ambulance, one on a stretcher; then faster and faster, lying here, lying there, waiting each his terrible turn. The silver steel grows cloudy and lurid; true right arms are lopped like slips of golden willow; feet that never turned from the foe, forever more without an owner, strow the ground. The knives are busy, the saws play; it is bloody work. Ah, the surgeon with heart and head, with hand and eye fit for such a place, is a prince among men; cool and calm, quick and tender, he feels among the arteries and fingers the tendons as if they were harp-strings. But the cloud thunders and the spiteful rain patters louder and fiercer, and the poor fellows come creeping away in broken ranks like corn beaten down with the flails of the storm. "My God!" cried a surgeon, as looking up an instant from his work, he saw the mutilated crowds borne in; "my God! are all my boys cut down?" And yet it thundered and rained. A poor fellow writhes and a smothered moan escapes him. "Be patient, Jack," says the surgeon, cheerfully; "I'll make you all right in a minute." And what a meaning there was in that "all right!" It was a right arm to come off at the elbow, and "Jack" slipped off a ring that clasped one of the poor, useless fingers that were to blend with the earth of Alabama, and put it in his pocket! He was making ready for the "all right." Does "Alabama" mean "here we rest?" If so, how sad yet glorious have our boys made it, who sink to rest

Another sits up while the surgeon follows the bullet that has buried itself in his side; it is the work of an instant; no solemn council here, no lingering pause; the surgeon is bathed in patriot blood to his elbows, and the work goes on. An eye lies out upon a ghastly cheek, and silently the sufferer bides his time. "Well, Charley," says the doctor, he is dressing a wound as he talks, "what's the matter?" "Oh, not much, Doctor, only a hand off." Not unlike was the answer made me by a poor fellow, at Bridgeport, shattered as a tree is by lightning; "how are you now?" I said. "Bully!" was the reply. You should have heard that word, as he said it; vulgar as it used to seem, it grew manly and noble, and I shall never hear it again without a thought for the boy that uttered it, on the dusty slope of the Tennessee; the boy—must I say it?—that sleeps the soldier's sleep within an hundred rods of the spot where I found him. And so it is everywhere; not a whimper nor a plaint. Only once did I hear either. An Illinois lieutenant, as brave a fellow as ever drew a sword, had been shot through and through the thighs, fairly impaled by the bullet—the ugliest wound but one I ever saw. Eight days before he weighed one hundred and sixty. Then, he could not have swung one hundred and twenty clear of the floor.

He had just been brought over the mountain; his wounds were angry with fever; every motion was torture; they were lifting him as tenderly as they could; they let him slip and he fell, perhaps six inches. But it was like a dash from a precipice to him, and he wailed out like a little child, tears wet his thin, pale face, and he only said, "my poor child, how will they tell her?" It was only for an instant; his spirit and his frame stiffened up together, and with a half smile he said, "don't tell anybody, boys, that I made a fool of myself." The lieutenant "sleeps well," and alas, for the "poor child"—how did they tell her?

A soldier fairly riddled with bullets, like one of those battle-flags of Illinois, lay on a blanket gasping for breath. "Jemmy," said a comrade, and a friend before this cruel war began, with one arm swung up in a sling, and who was going home on furlough, "Jemmy, what shall I tell them at home for you?" "Tell them," said he, "that there isn't hardly enough left of me to say 'I,' but—hold down here a minute—tell Kate there is enough of me left to love her till I die." Jemmy got his furlough that night, and left the ranks forever. It seems to me that all true women must envy that girl's fate. Shot away all but his heart, that still beat true, who would not be the dead soldier's bride forever? Oh, there is nothing anywhere here to make you blush for human weakness; the rebel bullet is not moulded that can kill western manhood.

[Concluded to-morrow.]

A SCORCHING REBUKE.—A highly instructive as well as amusing incident took place in one of the business houses on one of our principal streets, last Saturday, while the colored regiment was marching along to the music of the national airs. Several gentlemen were looking on the parade, among them a wealthy planter of Alabama, who is a large slaveholder. One of the group stepped out of the door, looking for a few minutes, and then indignantly turning on his heel, addressed himself to the grave Alabamian, to the following purport:

"Well, I'll be d—d if that is not a burning disgrace which no decent white man can tolerate. Isn't that nigger regiment too great an insult?"

"Sir, there is not a negro in that regiment who is not a better man than a rebel to this government, and for whom I have not a thousand times more respect than I have for a traitor to his country. I think that the best possible use the government can make of the negroes is to take them and make them fight against the rebels. No traitor is too good to be killed by a negro, no weapon too severe to use against the wretches who are endeavoring to overthrow the government. Now, sir, swallow that, whether you like it or not."

The rebel darted off in utter amazement, without uttering a syllable of reply, leaving the sturdy Alabamian, who cherished the jewel of patriotism as something more precious than flocks of slaves, "alone in his glory."—Nashville Union.

Last Night's Report.

FORTRESS MONROE, Oct. 29.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 27th has the following:

"CHARLESTON, Oct. 26.—The enemy's batteries Gregg and Wagner opened this morning from seven guns in the former and four from the latter. The fire was principally directed against Sumter and Johnson. Two monitors were also engaged. The firing ceased at dark. One hundred shots were thrown from Morris Island, one hundred and sixty from the Monitors. No damage done. Our batteries replied vigorously."

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 28.

Special to Chicago Tribune.—The mass meeting here to-night was the most immense affair ever witnessed here. Monument Square was packed with a mass stretching from side to side. The procession was made up from all the wards with transparencies, etc., and the enthusiasm was beyond bounds. The platforms were covered with some of the most prominent men of Maryland, and draped in flags and crowed with mottoes.

Among the mottoes on the transparencies such as these were most prominent: "Freedom dawns on Maryland." "Slavery is dead, its treason killed it." "We go the government at any cost." "Here are the East Baltimore emancipationists." "Slavery, the shame spot of the 19th century." "How are you now Vallandigham." "Free labor and free speech." "Away with slavery." "Down with slavery, and up with human rights," and several with figures of negro soldiers, and such phrases as "I gibs it to de copperheads;" "I fight for de Union," etc., etc.

Henry Winter Davis, the first speaker, said he had just returned from carrying the war into Africa in the lower counties of Maryland; that the struggle was over, the victory already won, and nothing remained but the formal proclamation of the verdict the people had already decreed.

Secretary Chase was received with immense cheering, and made a very handsome little speech, exciting the utmost enthusiasm.

Gen. Garfield, a representative from New Orleans, Judge Kelly, of Philadelphia, Sam. Galloway, of Columbus, Ohio, and John Covode, of Pennsylvania, made short and stirring speeches, and Maryland speakers are at this hour (after 11 o'clock) continuing the meeting.

There is no hesitancy about putting the issue in the squarest terms. It is THE IMMEDIATE AND UNCONDITIONAL DESTRUCTION OF SLAVERY.

A banquet is now being given at the Eutaw House, to Secretary Chase, and other distinguished guests.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.

The State Union League of Massachusetts has elected Gen. B. F. Butler of Lowell and Mr. Cladin of Newton, delegates at large to the National Union League, which meets at Washington in December. Delegates from each congressional district were also chosen.

Gen. Butler addressed the meeting at length, taking ground with those who believe that the seceded states have annihilated themselves as states, while the power of the general government still remains intact over their territory.

He opposed the position of a member of the cabinet that the rebel commonwealths, by throwing down their arms, should be received into the Union with unimpaired rights with their old local institutions. His reasons for dictating terms before allowing the incorporation into the Union of these heretofore hostile sections, sprang from demonstrations vitally affecting the interests and safety of the nation. If the confederate states are re-admitted and their representatives take their seats in congress before some radical change is effected, what guarantee is there that the federal national debt will not be repudiated, or made to stand upon the alternative that the confederate debt must likewise be paid; and let this question come before congress and all the appliance of corruption would be set in motion to secure such a decision as would place THE FEDERAL AND REBEL INDEBTEDNESS UPON THE SAME FOOTING.

Gen. Butler contended that the rebel states must be regarded as destroyed, or it would be almost impossible to choose another president, for the reason that no candidate likely to be selected would receive such a support in the north as to give him a majority of the whole electoral college, constituted of all the states, both loyal and rebel. Transfer the question to the house of representatives, where each commonwealth casts only one vote, and a majority of such votes is required, and the difficulty will be greatly increased. The policy of safety and justice was to restore the Union in the south only as fast as the principles of freedom and loyalty are extended over the now rebel domain.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 29.

Lieut. Col. J. B. Brownlow, of the 9th Tennessee cavalry, arrived in the city day before yesterday, to obtain clothing and equipments for his regiment. He informs us that there is no doubt but that East Tennessee will adopt immediate measures for emancipating its slaves. Over eight thousand recruits have been obtained since Gen. Burnside entered Knoxville; two regiments of these are from the parts of North Carolina and Georgia bordering on East Tennessee. Parson Brownlow issued the first number of his new paper on the 26th inst., which date is exactly two years from the day upon which the Knoxville Whig was suppressed.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 29.

The Royal Mail steamer City of Washington, from Liverpool, Oct. 21, via Queenstown, Oct. 22, passed Cape Race this noon. She was boarded by the news yacht, and the following summary of her news obtained, which is one day later:

Henry Ward Beecher addressed an immense audience in Exeter Hall, London, on the 20th, upon the interests of the north. A few expressions of dissent were drowned in the general plaudits of the vast assemblage.

The Daily News says this was one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held in London, and must have convinced Mr. Beecher of the truth of Earl Russell's assertion that the great body of the English people were with the north, and cause him to return home as a messenger of peace and good-will between the two countries.

The Times combats Mr. Beecher's argument, and declares that he is not the man to convert the British people to the federal cause.

It was rumored that France was strongly urging the expulsion of the ex-King of Naples from Rome.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.

A Chattanooga letter to the Herald says deserters continue to come into our lines, notwithstanding the extraordinary measures taken to prevent them. Nine men, one a commissioned officer, Tennesseeans, came in yesterday. The officer, who is intelligent, and apparently honest, tells a tale which is cheering and inspiring to all good Union men, and which corroborates previous information.

He says a full brigade of Tennesseeans with their general at their head attempted to come through to our lines in a body, one day last week, and that a division of staunch rebels was called out to prevent them. A fight of the most sanguinary character ensued, in which artillery, musketry and bayonets were used for three or four hours, resulting in the overpowering of the discontented Tennesseeans, after some 800 men had been slaughtered on both sides.

The sound of the cannon was distinctly heard in our lines at the time, but nobody could explain the phenomenon of the brisk fire so close to the enemy's rear. The officers say the matter was hushed up, and has since been kept so quiet that the extremes of Bragg's army knew nothing definite about it.

Thomas and Granger, who are now universally acknowledged the saviors of the army, are to each have a splendid corps, three divisions in each, with able commanders at their head. The brigades will probably be composed of not less than nine regiments each. In fact, the whole machinery of the army, when reorganized, will be less complicated and more effective. The health of the army, notwithstanding the labor and anxiety it has experienced, is very good. A large field hospital is established in a lovely valley two miles from the town, north of the river, and the sick receive the best of care and food.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 29.

The steamship Germania, from Hamburg, via Southampton 21st, passed Cape Race this morning, and was boarded by the news yacht. Dates are three days later.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The British admiralty had decided to construct a new squadron of iron gunboats, armor plated double screw propellers, to be armed with two heavy Armstrong guns.

The Alabama, Georgia and Tuscarora continue cruising around the coast of the Cape of Good Hope. The Vanderbilt had arrived at the Cape in pursuit of the Alabama, and was repairing in Simon's Bay.

Capt. Semmes has sold the bark Sea Bride. No further captures had been made by the rebel vessels. Capt. Semmes will not, from motives of policy, seek an engagement with the Vanderbilt, but if his vessel should be blockaded in Simon Bay by her, will endeavor to elude her, as she did the San Jacinto at Martinique.

Capt. Semmes is of the opinion that the Vanderbilt is very much faster than the Alabama, and that if she should come to close quarters he could not get away from her.

FRANCE.—The Moniteur says the movements in the Caucasus are serious. The Pays denies that France participated in the negotiations upon the Polish question, and states that Austria and England are endeavoring to come to an understanding on the subject of an identical note.—France awaits the result of the negotiations. Europe knows that France will adhere to every act according with existing circumstances, and satisfying public opinion in Europe, which the agreement of the three powers desire to represent.

Rentes closed at 60f to 67f 20c.

JAPAN.—Admiral Kuper's fleet had arrived at Roscosema. Negotiations failing to obtain the satisfaction demanded, Kuper besieged the city and leveled it to the ground. He then set on fire Prince Satisma's three steamers, and returned. Roscosema is one mass of ruins, palace, factories and arsenals all destroyed.

To-Day's Report.

[Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.]

MORNING DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Oct 29.

Special to World.—Everything is quiet in front, to-day, though this evening's Republican announces that Gen. Meade is feeling the enemy and will soon make an important movement. Refugees come within our lines and report that Hood's division of Longstreet's corps has returned from Bragg's army to Lee. The railroad to Rappahannock will be completed in about four days. Yesterday's Richmond papers were received, but contain nothing new. All quiet at the west and at Charleston. The rumors telegraphed here from the north of rioting in Richmond are contradicted by passengers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.

Tribune's special.—A gentleman recently from Vicksburg says the Mississippi has been and is unusually low, and only gunboats of light draft can navigate the stream. Dangers to navigation from snags are increased by the presence of guerrillas, and almost every vessel passing receives vollies at different points. A number of boats have been destroyed by guerrillas, the plan being to pick off the pilots, when the boats becoming unmanageable are run ashore and are then attacked, plundered and destroyed, the passengers being left on the bank to go whethersoever they can. The navigation of the river is likely to be seriously affected in this manner as no convoyence can be sent with boats. The work of strengthening and increasing the fortifications of Vicksburg is steadily progressing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

The steamer Eagle from Havana of the 24th has arrived. A Havana letter to the Herald states that the insurgents in St. Domingo had completely destroyed the town of Puerto Plate, and gained a great advantage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

The Richmond despatch of the 26th states that on the 16th inst., a company of Partizan Rangers under the command of Maj. Edgar Burrows attacked the steamer J. B. White, on Albermarle and Chesapeake canal, capturing and burning her with a dredging machine and two lighters, which she was towing. This steamer is the same vessel which ran out of Norfolk to Fortress Monroe last year. She was on her way to Great Shoals, and was captured at a place called Bethel. Her crew and passengers were taken into a swamp near by and paroled. The steamer is valued at $30,000. Major Burrows also attacked the mail steamer Fawn on the canal, but though a heavy fire was poured into her she got away.

Never attempt to talk much about that which you do not understand.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

From the Richmond despatch.—Commissioner Ould returned from an interview with the yankee commissioner Meridith, who intimated that he had no power to negotiate for further exchanges, that Stanton always opposed any exchanges of prisoners during the war, and his policy never was the policy of the government. This will be the last interview, unless desired, for the renewal comes from the other side.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 29.

Lookout Mountain was taken on the 28th by our troops, under Gen. Hooker, with the 11th corps, and a portion of the 12th, and Palmer's division of the 4th corps. There is no serious opposition. The river is now open to Chattanooga and the army of the Cumberland is relieved from any danger threatened by interrupted communication.

General Palmer has been promoted to the command of the 14th corps, over Rosseau, Reynolds and Sheridan. Rosseau is very ill. General Mitchell is relieved from the cavalry command, and ordered to report here. He is now in the city. The river is four feet on the shoals.

No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine. ### AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY OR INVENTION!

THE undersigned has, during the winter of 1862—3, while the prices of Linseed Oil ran so extremely high, made a very important discovery of an

OIL FOR PAINTING!

It is entirely new—an original article—so far as my knowledge extends respecting it It is composed of materials easy to be obtained—which are within the reach of any mechanic or artist. Its constituent parts are mineral, animal, and vegetable, and nothing that is off us vs or unhealthy there being in it no poisonous drugs, nor anything but what is used in every family either for food or light.

I have tried it, to my satisfaction, to be fully equal, if not superior, to Linseed Oil, for a foundation coat for any painting. I have used it for all kinds of painting that is within my range of business. I have this season (succeeding its discovery) done the entire painting (or first two coats of paint) on the new white brick house that I have had the superintendence of, on Bluff street, which may be examined at any time, by any person There can also be seen specimens of painting, and samples of the oil at

Doty's Sash and Glass Depot,

MAIN ST., JANESVILLE.

As the article will, in a great degree, take the place of linseed oil, both on account of its cheapness and real merit, I feel assured it will meet with a ready sale, and offer it to the public with favorable delivery, and offer it to the public for a satisfactory trial.

The article can be had, with directions for its use, at any time, by calling upon me, at Doty's Sash and Glass Depot.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.

Our LETTER A FAMILY SEWING MACHINE is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action a all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work. While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY OR INVENTION!

THE undersigned has, during the winter of 1862—3, while the prices of Linseed Oil ran so extremely high, made a very important discovery of an

OIL FOR PAINTING!

It is entirely new—an original article—so far as my knowledge extends respecting it. It is composed of materials easy to be obtained—which are within the reach of any mechanic or artist. Its constituent parts are mineral, animal, and vegetable, and nothing that is offensive, or unhealthy, there being in it no poisonous drugs, nor anything but what is used in every family either for food or light.

I have found it, to my satisfaction, to be fully equal, if not superior, to Linseed Oil, for a foundation coat for any painting. I have used it for all kinds of painting that is within my range of business. I have this season (succeeding its discovery) done the entire painting (or first two coats of paint) on the new white brick house that I have had the superintendence of, on Bluff street, which may be examined at any time, by any person. There can also be seen specimens of painting, and samples of the oil, at

Doty's Sash and Glass Depot,
MAIN ST., JANESVILLE.

As the article will, in a great degree, take the place of linseed oil, both on account of its cheapness and real merit, I conceive it to be a most valuable discovery, and offer it to the public for a satisfactory trial.

The article can be had, with directions for its use, at any time, by calling upon me, at Doty's Sash and Glass Depot. Z. S. DOTY.

HATHAWAY & HAMMOND.

Carriage Mak'rs

(Successors to L. F. HATHAWAY)

Jackson St, opposite Presbyterian Church.

WE are now conducting one of the best Carriage manufactories in the West. The personal attention and labor of the partners are directed to the most important branches of the work—Mr. Hathaway superintending and working at the wood work, and Mr. Hammond having charge of the trimming. We feel satisfied that we can turn out from our shop as can be had from Chicago, or any of the eastern cities from which work is now ordered.

We use only the very best quality of second growth eastern timber, oil-tempered springs, and case-hardened axles, and employ none but the best workmen in any department of our business.

We have now on hand of our own manufacture—Light two-seated Carriages, extension tops, for one or two horses; light two seated open Buggies, Top Buggies, single open Buggies, &c.

We would call especial attention to our light

EUREKA ROCKAWAYS,

Single Park Phaetons, Coal Box Buggies, and many others, too numerous to mention, all of which we will sell for the next sixty days for a very small profit, and less than the same can be bought for in the State. All our work warranted.
